Peace & Seclusion...

Lodges

Our range of detached lodges offer character accommodation in a range of sizes and prices. Our smaller lodges offer individual character with a variety of different layouts. Some are set on the slopes with a path or steps to reach them. This adds to their charm and seclusion but of course may not be suitable for everyone.

Many families and older people return again and again to our excellent Type E lodges which are positioned on level lawns offering easy access to the playing field and dog walk. Those who require even more space will enjoy the Type F lodge, with its large covered verander and positioned near the stream to give the best aspect and privacy. The spacious Type G lodges are also on the level by the stream and enjoy the addition of the third bedroom having an en-suite with toilet and shower and a dishwasher in the kitchen.

All lodges have outside furniture to allow you do enjoy the fine weather.

Dogs are welcomed in certain lodges providing they are kept on leads in the park and exercised in the designated walking area.

Wildlife

Bird and animal life abounds in the natural setting with the squirrels and ducks offering an endless source of entertainment and fascination.

Facilities

On the far bank of the stream there is a small playing field with football posts, outdoor badminton and activity equipment for younger children. There is also a selection of garden games for you to enjoy - Noughts and Crosses, Giant Jenga, Giant Draughts, Giant Connect Four and Giant Dominoes.

On the park is a small launderette with coin operated machines and free book and games library. As resident owners we are available for help and assistance when needed.

Wifi is available in all lodges (charges apply).

We do not have a restaurant or bar on site but within 500 yards is the local village shop and post office and the Polgoth Inn.

The Engine House

Our superbly converted engine house dates back to 1890 when it was built to house a beam engine for the Polyear Mining operation. Now offering unique three bedroomed self catering accommodation, the Engine House enjoys a large balcony on which to relax and view the surrounding parkland. The annex on the south side of the engine house, now bedrooms and bathrooms, would have originally housed a single Cornish boiler to provide steam.

Due to the nature of the building, there are many steps and staircases and therefore may not be suitable for families with toddlers or the elderly.
